The District Announces “Drinks in The District” Event Series

Networking events to support Quincy’s historic downtown 2nd Wednesday of each month

QUINCY, IL – The Historic Quincy Business District (THE DISTRICT) announced today it is launching a new series of networking events titled DRINKS IN THE DISTRICT. These events will take place the second Wednesday of each month at rotating establishments throughout downtown Quincy, within The District’s boundaries.

The first event is scheduled Wednesday, April 13 at 5:30 p.m. at the Quincy Brewing Company (110 N 6th St). The events are free and open to the public. RSVPs are not required.

“After exceptionally positive feedback to our previous evening-based networking events, we wanted to expand into a discrete event series with the focus being support of local venues throughout The District,” Director of Programming and Marketing Jeremy Ledford said. “We are excited to open these events to the public, so they have an opportunity to meet with business owners and leaders, learn about the latest happenings in our historic downtown, and most importantly get involved in downtown all while having a great time.”

At DRINKS IN THE DISTRICT, attendees can expect a casual environment to learn about upcoming events in The District, as well as meet with District staff to share any feedback or suggestions on District activities. Visitors will also have an opportunity to learn about and sign up for any volunteer District activities that may interest them. The event is also designed to be a networking event, allowing prospective and current business owners to interact with one another and build comradery in making downtown Quincy the best it can be.

Complimentary snacks will also be provided by Quincy Brewing Company during the April 13 event.

May 2022’s DRINKS IN THE DISTRICT is scheduled Wednesday, May 11 at The Ratskeller (929 York St). Other establishments based in The District are encouraged to contact the organization if interested in being a possible venue for future dates.
